Aurora Borealis Lights Up Western Nevada Skies

By Leanna Lehman

Residents of Northwestern Nevada were treated to an illuminated night sky like few have ever seen Friday, May 10, and to a lesser degree the following night. Generally reserved for Earth's extremely northern and arctic regions, an extraordinary sighting of the aurora borealis captivated local viewers and shutterbugs alike.

Fortunately, this celestial light show was visible much farther south than usual. In a recent article in the "Western Nevada College News," Director of the Jack C. Davis Observatory at WNC, Dr. Thomas Herring, explained that the Sun has been in what he called "a very active phase," producing energetic ejections of materials, specifically Coronal Mass Ejections, or CMEs. These solar storms are preventing the Earth's magnetic field from blocking particles that normally do not reach our atmosphere, leading to this extraordinary sighting.

Captain's Log - We'll Be Right Here

We got a new office, and we're on Maine Street!

For the past year, we've all been working remotely, and while convenient in many ways, it does tend to stunt our growth as a team and an organization overall. Many times during the week, we get requests wondering why people can't find us—"Where's your office?" they ask, needing to drop off something, buy a subscription, or just stop by for a visit.

Well, now you can—we're in a lovely space in the Mason's building at 25 S. Maine Street. We inherited some of the beautiful decorating work of our neighbor down the street, Pam, who left the walls and some of her artwork inside the building. We're looking forward to putting our own touches on the space and creating a space where our Fallon Media family wants to be.

It's really exciting to have a place for the whole team to function from a base camp, so to speak. To have a place to put our heads together and make plans, think through issues, and support each other. It's fun to think about being downtown, where the exciting "Maine Street Renaissance" is taking place. Where new businesses are thriving, and people love to be.

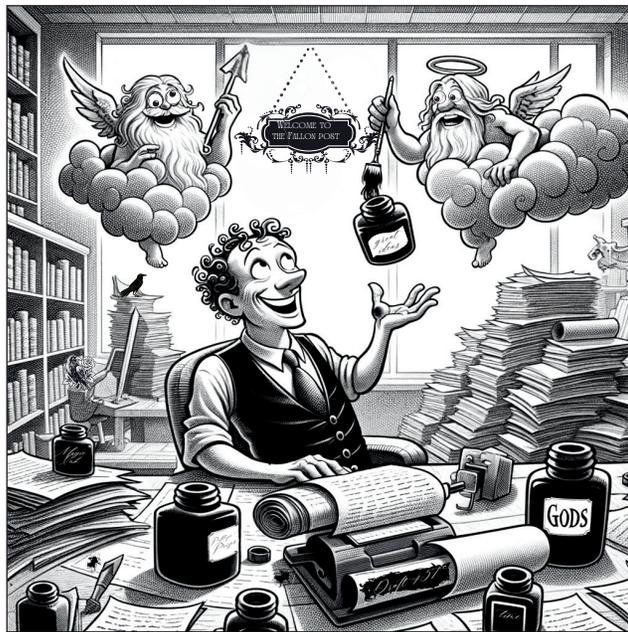

We're also looking forward to not having the Wednesday night debate over who is going to wait up for the delivery guy to drop off the papers and drive all the way back to town to pick them up. And having a place for the volunteers to come visit and donut before the delivery routes get tackled.

So, while we reach another milestone in this journey of small-town papering, we hope you'll swing by and visit while we move right there...

...Keeping you Posted.

Kent's Celebrates 125 Years

The Legacy of Kent's Supply Center

By Nancy Chapman

Karla Kent has been guiding Kent's Supply Center since 1984 when she became president of the company. She took over and continued in the footsteps of Ira Heber Kent, the founder, and her great-grandfather.

The original Kent's Supply was started in 1892 in Stillwater, Nevada, by Ira Heber Kent, better known as I.H. Kent. At the time, Stillwater was the county seat of Churchill County. In 1906, the local government moved the county seat to Fallon. Kent moved the store to Fallon, knowing that was where the business would be. A small building was placed on skids and pulled by a 20-horse and mule team to where it sets today. This was no easy feat, as the roads from Stillwater into Fallon were not much more than wagon ruts. It would take five days to complete the move to Maine Street.

Ira would make Kent's Store a thriving business. He supplied farmers, ranchers, townspeople, and businesses with feed, lumber, and, at that time, a grocery store, much as they still do today.

Fairview Mine was one of the businesses with a line of credit at the store. In 1915, the mine experienced some hard times, and the owner owed Ira Kent money. The two business owners struck a deal. If the mine owner gave Ira their warehouse building, it would satisfy the account, and with that, the building needed to be moved to Fallon. The building was disassembled, transported by railroad in small sections, and reconstructed in town. Thus, the historic warehouse at I.H. Kent Company came to be, with the building remaining on the property today.

Ira Longfellow Kent would be the next generation; in 1948, he would take over where his dad left off and build the business by adding a grain mill. The mill would buy feed and grain locally from the farmers and ranchers to be milled and mixed into grains for cow or horse feed, then resold or shipped out by rail to other destinations. The store would give the people selling their products to the mill a line of credit to cover their needed supplies until the next harvest year.

Thomas Kent led the store starting in 1965, taking over from his dad. He continued to buy local feed and process grains that were bagged and resold locally or shipped to other destinations. Unfortunately, the mill was shut down in 1975 as it became too expensive to keep and maintain. He began stocking building materials for homes and businesses developing in the Fallon area.

Karla Kent has been president of the corporation since 1984. Starting out of high school in 1978, she began learning the business from her dad, learning trends and new ways of doing business all along the way. She has led the company through one of the biggest building booms Fallon has seen in its 132 years. Contractors locally and in surrounding areas, as well as "do-it-yourselfers," have used Kent's Supply Center for all their construction needs.

Of course, she did not turn away from what built the company. Bagged animal feed is still a staple at Kent's Supply Center.

James Garner's Tribute to Johnny Cash May 25

Staff Report

For one night and one night only, the signature boom-chicka-boom sound of Johnny Cash will fill the Barkley Theatre at the Oats Park Art Center. Join the fun at 151 E. Park Street on Saturday, May 25, 2024, at 7 p.m., and listen to James Garner's critically acclaimed tribute to the "Man in Black."

Concertgoers can expect to hear familiar Cash favorites such as "Ring of Fire," "I Walk the Line," and "A Boy Named Sue," as well as songs from his historic At Folsom Prison and At San Quentin albums.

"We're excited to bring our show back to Fallon," Garner said. "We did a benefit concert last year in Fallon for Top Gun Dragstrip, and it was a blast. We met so many wonderful people, and we look forward to bringing the songs and stories of Johnny Cash to Fallon once again."

In 2007, Garner and his band began touring with his tribute show, making a memorable trip to Folsom State Prison in 2008 to commemorate the 40th anniversary of Cash's infamous live album. That was followed by a performance at San Quentin State Prison in 2010.

Gene Beley, one of two reporters covering the historic 1968 Folsom Prison concert as part of Cash's entourage has attended several of Garner's tribute shows. "Garner and his band give concertgoers their money's worth," Beley said. "This act will not disappoint the people who wish to resurrect that classic Johnny Cash voice and rhythm."

Backing Garner is his longtime Boom-Chicka-Boom Band, a talented group of musicians from northern California. Reggie Gay of Woodland picks guitar, Chris Akin of Stockton plucks the bass, and Nick Auriemmo of Lodi anchors the beat on the drums.

In addition to playing the Man in Black's iconic songs, Garner is well-known for his engaging storytelling about Johnny Cash and the Tennessee Three and the important music they created.

"Our concert is much more than just playing Johnny Cash's hits," Garner said. "There's a lot of history infused in the show, so folks leave knowing more about the Man in Black's life and his impact on American music and artists than when they arrived."

For Garner, the love of Johnny Cash music started at an early age while growing up in Hanford, California. "I was 12 years old when I heard my first Johnny Cash song as we drove on Highway 198 from Visalia to Hanford," Garner said. "It was 'Don't Take Your Guns to Town,' and I was hooked. A few years later, I saw him in concert in Fresno and got to meet him backstage following the show. Shaking hands with Johnny Cash is something I'll never forget."

Three decades following the meeting with Cash, Garner continues to pay tribute to his musical hero. In addition to having played more than 700 shows nationwide, Garner's group has released three full-length albums, making them the country's most recorded and published Johnny Cash tribute show. Garner's tribute has also been featured numerous times live in concerts on local PBS stations.

Tickets for James Garner's Tribute to Johnny Cash at the Barkley Theatre at Oats Park Art Center are $35 in advance and $50 at the door. Advance tickets are available at bit.ly/Fallon-2024JohnnyCashTribute. For more on James Garner, visit www.CastTribute.net.

Fallon/Churchill VFD Street Dance Fun for Families

Story and photos by Victoria Crystal

The VFD Street Dance Friday, May 10, was a big hit with kids and families riding on Engine #4. Everyone admired the new Engines #2 and #4 along with the Navy's Engine. With the occasional line dance breaking out, the raffle, corn hole for the younger adults, and Fire House Safety for the kids everyone had a wonderful time.

Push-In Ceremony

By Jarod Dooley and Nancy Chapman

Jarod Dooley Fallon/Churchill Fire Department Chief opened the Push-in ceremony with a huge thank you to Mayor Ken Tedford, Councilman Paul Harmon, Councilwoman Kelly Frost, Councilwoman Karla Kent, and Chief of Staff Bob Erickson, the city members; and Commissioner Chair Myles Getto, Commissioner Justin Heath, Commissioner Bus Scharmann, County Manager Jim Barbee, the county members. These two groups make up the Fallon/Churchill advisory board for the Fire Department. In this capacity, they gave many hours of their time helping the department write the bids for the purchase of the engines and many more hours assisting the department with the purchasing process. "This teamwork helps to keep our citizens safe," Dooley stated.

More than four years ago, the Fallon/Churchill Fire Department started down the long road that would eventually lead them to Engine 2 and Engine 4, representing all the newest and best technology available in fire service today. They are 40 feet long, 12 feet high, and 34 tons of fire suppression. Each engine will hold more than 2700 gallons of water and house the newest pump and foam technology on the market. These two new 2023 WS Darly Company Fire Engines are the front line as first-out firefighting apparatus to serve the citizens of the city and the county.

Chief Dooley said, "Many of you are probably asking the same question, 'What is a push-in ceremony?'... To my knowledge this type of ceremony has never been done for our department. Today, we are starting a new tradition here at the Fire Department. The history of the push-in ceremony dates to the 17th century when hand-drawn equipment needed to be pushed into the station after returning from a run. In the 18th century, firefighting equipment was getting heavier, and horses were commonly used to pull apparatus. It was difficult to control the horses while backing the equipment in, so firefighters would often disconnect the team and push the apparatus back into the station themselves. As fire departments from yesteryear received new apparatus it became a tradition to invite the public to a ceremony where they would 'push' the new equipment into their place in the fire station. Nowadays, the equipment is still backed in; we just use less horses. The push-in tradition is honored all over the world by all fire departments and is a great way to involve the community in their Fire Department."

Chief Dooley also thanked the volunteer firefighters of Fallon/Churchill for their tireless dedication to keeping this community safe. Their commitment never ceases to amaze him. They spend thousands of hours a year dedicated to training and fighting fires to make this a better place. Firefighting can be dangerous work. Sometimes, the difference between life and death is the available equipment. "I'm proud to say that these two engines are the best equipment that any fire department can bring to bear in an emergency. In short, the best firemen deserve the best stuff," Dooley said. He also thanked mechanics Brandon Acquista-pace and John Ezzell for all the work they have done to get these engines ready to be put into service since their purchase in November 2023. "I don't know any better firemen... so enjoy these Engines boys!"

"To the citizens of the City of Fallon and Churchill County, the biggest thanks of all goes to you. During election season, the Fire Department asks for your support in voting for the Property Tax Override. These Engines are a direct reflection of the support received from that vote. We cannot thank you enough," Dooley concluded.

Reiner Harper, Command Chaplain for NAS Fallon, graciously agreed to bless the two engines. In the great tradition of push-in ceremonies, Chaplain Harper prayed for the personnel's and engines' safety when these units are called upon for service.

Then, the #1 Engineer took his place in the driver's seat, and the firemen began the "push-in" of Engine #2. "After tonight, this will be our first-out apparatus," stated Chief Dooley.

The evening was enjoyed by those attending with food, ice cream, fire truck rides, cornhole, fire safety booths, raffles, and of course dancing.

Dr. Herring explained that intense geomagnetic storms must occur for us to see the northern lights. "It just so happens that the Sun is in a very active phase right now where its magnetic field is very complex and more likely to produce energetic ejections of material in the form of Coronal Mass Ejections (CMEs), which are usually associated with bright solar flares (an outburst of electromagnetic energy caused by collapsing magnetic fields on the Sun)."

According to Dr. Herring, there has not been a geomagnetic storm this powerful since 2003. "We were actually hit by a succession of CME events in a short period of time, resulting in a very strong G5 geomagnetic storm last Friday," Dr. Herring stated in the article. This unique occurrence, part of the Sun's 11-year cycle, led to the extraordinary sighting of the aurora borealis in Northwestern Nevada.

The Space Weather Prediction Center of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration indicates that these storms will continue over the next few days; however, they will not be visible from our viewing area. The northernmost U.S. states, along with central Canada, Alaska, and further north, are within the extended viewing line and should also get a spectacular view if their night skies are clear.

Several Fallon residents reported seeing the lights; however, they found that their cameras were able to capture better images than what could be seen by the naked eye. This photograph was captured by professional freelance photographer John Baker, whose image rivals that of the photograph Dr. Herring took with an all-sky camera. ## District Court - May 7

By Teresa Moon

The Tenth Judicial District Court convened Tuesday, May 7, with Judge Thomas Stockard presiding.

Tyler Kirby Shaw was present in court for an arraignment with his defense attorney, Ray Areshenko, who appeared via Zoom. Areshenko told Judge Stockard that he and Shaw had been unable to meet and requested a continuance. Stockard consented and continued the matter to May 28, explaining to Shaw that it is his responsibility to stay in touch with his attorney. Stockard placed Shaw under the supervision of Court Services with daily check-ins and random drug testing and ordered Shaw to report to Court Services after his court appearance to be drug tested. However, Shaw failed to appear for the test. The court contacted Areshenko, who had not been in contact with Shaw and did not know his whereabouts. Stockard expressed extreme concern about Shaw's direct disobedience of a court order. Stockard gave Shaw until 3:30 that afternoon to comply or stated he would issue a $2,500 cash-only bond.

Amber Dawn Dittmer appeared for an arraignment. Judge Stockard informed her she would be required to drug test with Court Services before they could proceed. She admitted that she would test positive for marijuana and had used methamphetamine as recently as the day prior. The test showed positive results for methamphetamine, MDMA, opioids, marijuana, and alcohol. Chief Deputy District Attorney asked that Dittmer be returned to custody. At the same time, with the Churchill County Public Defender's Office, Wright Noel argued that she should remain out of custody, having been released on her own recognizance (OR).

Stockard addressed Dittmer's behavior, telling her, "It is clear you committed direct contempt of court by appearing before this court under the influence of a number of things; also, by not being truthful with this court. I am going to enter a contempt order; I am going to take it under advisement... [as to] what I am going to do as a result of that." Stockard did not revoke Dittmer's OR release but ordered her to check in and drug test daily with Court Services. The matter was continued to May 14.

Samona Evonne Keimig pleaded guilty to Use of a System Providing Telephone Numbers to be Used in an Emergency When no Actual or Perceived Emergency Exists, a gross misdemeanor punishable by up to 364 days in jail and a fine of up to $2,000. The allegations state that on January 29, 2024, Keimig called 911 several times when there was no emergency. Judge Stockard suspended proceedings and placed Keimig on probation for 12 months with the condition she complete the Western Nevada Regional Specialty Court (WNRSC) program.

Travis Reed Johnson appeared for sentencing on a Gross Misdemeanor of Battery on an Officer, to which he pled guilty in February. Deputy District Attorney Priscilla Baker said the state has no objection to the defendant applying for diversion through WNRSC and is hopeful he will take advantage of this opportunity to change his behavior in the future. Johnson was provisionally placed in the program in February.

Public Defender Jacob Sommer told the court, "I am just thrilled to report that Travis is doing so well." Sommer also reported that Johnson had been homeless for quite a while but just recently found an apartment. Sommer said he is a good young man and asked Judge Stockard to agree to the state's recommendation and formally place Johnson in the diversion program.

The victim, who has been with the Fallon Police Department since 2018, told the court, "My biggest concern with the incident is that this keeps happening, and someone will eventually get hurt." He said this incident was pretty simple and over quickly; however, one unintentional move could end somebody's career, causing a drastic effect.

Johnson, who was granted an opportunity to address the officer, stated, "I really am sorry. I mean, I was just really upset that day. I apologize."

The victim, "I get it, Travis. Just do good from here on out; that's all I'm asking."

Johnson was placed on probation for a year, and proceedings were suspended to allow him to complete diversion court.

Shawn Bradley Brown was not present for sentencing on the wobbler of Attempt to Commit Burglary of a Business, which he pled guilty to in April. A $25,000 cash-only bench warrant was issued.

Gage Thomas Elizarraraz, in custody, was found competent to stand trial after a complete evaluation. He was remanded back to Justice Court for further proceedings.

Continuances:

- Tyrrell Raphael Franklin's sentencing hearing was continued to June 4.
- Odome James Jackson's status hearing continued until May 21.
- Austin Taylor Dyer's competency hearing was continued to May 14.
- Corey Wayne Bennett's status hearing continued until July 30.

Todd Moretto Candidate for County Commission, District 3

By Rachel Dahl

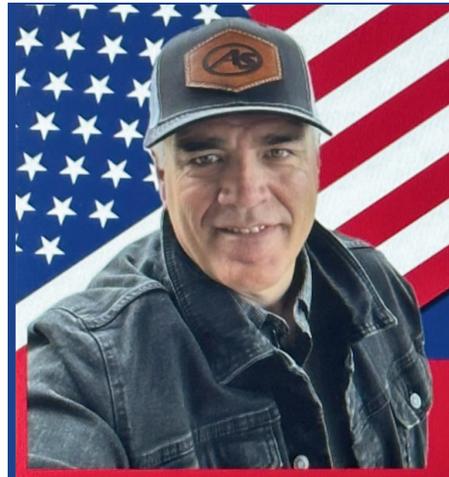

Todd Moretto, the son of the late Trena Moretto, who served as the Churchill County recorder from 1998 to 2006, has chosen to make Churchill County his home. He was born and raised in Fallon and attended local schools.

Moretto has served on the Fallon Cantaloupe Festival Committee, coming in nearly ten years ago to help with sound and entertainment. He eventually took over booking the acts and running the logistics of the entertainment portion of the Festival and now serves as the vice chairman. In his professional life, he is a maintenance planner for Kennametal and, as a local business owner, runs Auditory Sensations, doing sound and music for local events of all sizes.

"I have attended many community functions and have heard the concerns expressed by the area's residents, elected and nonelected officials," he said. "I have seen the county's growth, and I understand how our local government works. I know what this community special."

Issues that top the list of importance include agriculture and tourism. "We must preserve Churchill County's agriculture base with the many farms and ranches dotting the Lahontan Valley."

With a nod to the many community events throughout the year, Morretto said, "Churchill County hosts events better than any other town around. Tourism is important to our community. We need to consider additional motel and hotel rooms to accommodate the successful growth of our town."

"I want to preserve Churchill County's culture, and I want to see it continue to thrive. This is what has formulated many of my ideas to move forward as a candidate for the Churchill County Commissioner District 3," Moretto said.

Political Signs Not Allowed on State Highway Roadsides

Staff Report

With Nevada's primary elections approaching, the Nevada Department of Transportation (NDOT) reminds community members that political signage is prohibited on state highway property by state statute. Federal regulations also prohibit political and advertising signage on public highway property, including but not limited to political signs, yard sale/event signs, and realtor or business signage.

Knowing that state road property often extends beyond the roadside, fence line, or sidewalk of interstates, freeways, highways, and urban state roads/streets is vital to public safety, as it keeps drivers' lines of sight clear at intersections and other locations. For a listing of state roadways and more information, visit dot.nv.gov and click "Public Involvement" and "Signs Rules/Regulations."

Signage that distracts or blocks the view of drivers could be wind-blown into the roadway, interfere with roadway maintenance, and become a safety hazard. Working on busy roadside shoulders or crossing traffic lanes outside designated pedestrian areas to install signage can also be dangerous.

By state law, political signs under four by eight feet may be posted on private property next to state roads no more than 60 days before an election. Any signs posted on private property within 660 feet of state roads must be removed within 30 days of the general election.

Department staff safely removes unlawful signs on highway roadsides, often temporarily storing them at the nearest NDOT maintenance station for the sign owner's pick-up. Per Nevada Revised Statute 405.110, sign owners can be fined up to $250.

A printable pamphlet containing political sign regulations is available by searching "political signs" at dot.nv.gov.

Be aware that local cities and counties may have additional guidelines regulating the placement of political signs along local roads.

Library Woes Continue

By Rachel Dahl

The Churchill County Library was closed on Monday, according to a social media post by the county. The post explained the closure as “due to staff illness” and said it didn’t open until 11 a.m. last Friday, May 10.

Five library staff members have retired or resigned since February, with one of those resignations coming last week. Typically, there are 6.3 library staff members. Currently, there is a children’s librarian and a part-time page in addition to the library director.

A contentious Library Board meeting on April 25 led to the setting of a special meeting on May 9 to consider the evaluation of the job performance of the Library Director C.L. Quillen, receive an update on the process to recruit and fill vacant employee positions, and a consideration of existing library hours.

At the special meeting, Chris Spross, Human Resources Director, reported that a part-time page would be hired on May 10.

No decisions were made at the special meeting after board members pulled the agenda item related to the director’s evaluation after being advised by Civil Deputy District Attorney Jeff Weed to keep the meeting to “information gathering.” The regular board meeting was agendized for May 16 at 3 p.m.

Library board member Jo Petteruti opposed language in the agenda item specifically addressing the evaluation of the library director. According to the Nevada Revised Statute, this must be done in a public meeting as Quillen serves “at the will of the board.”

“We’ve never used this language; it immediately implies there’s an issue, and that’s not right. We’re supposed to be advocates for the library and the lady we chose,” Petteruti said to Board Chair Kelli Kelly. “She was your choice to go with. Shame on you.”

According to Spross, due to budget constraints, the recruitment process to fill the retired library position vacated in February was put on hold, but that process has been reinstated and can begin again now.

“I have no information on when we can proceed on the three other vacancies,” Spross said.

During public comment, Gaylene Drinkut, a library patron, went on record with her experience in the library on May 8. She visited the library with her 8-year-old granddaughter. “There were kids cursing and shoving each other as we walked into the library, and inside there were kids on the tables, they were throwing boxes, and playing ‘grab pants’ in the corner. That is not what I’m used to in the library. It was chaotic.” Drinkut said one librarian was on duty trying to get order, and the other was on break. “I called the police it was so out of order.”

Police came to the library and did a sweep, talking to the children, but told Drinkut they could not do anything unless the staff told them a patron needed to leave.

“The librarian who came back from break was making excuses for the children, saying the library is a public place and the kids need a place to go. This kind of behavior doesn’t happen unless it has been allowed, and it only escalates,” Drinkut said.

The Fallon Police Department confirmed that they have been called to the library three times in the past six months to address issues with juveniles.

During public comment and by the board members during the meeting, several suggestions were made for options that may help with staffing issues and cover library hours, including using temporary staffing through Manpower, accessing volunteers from NAS Fallon, implementing parking lot pickup, and engaging the school resources officer to assist with unruly students.

Petteruti raised concerns about covering library hours. “We had 6.3 positions, and we’re open 55 hours per week; I’m puzzled how we can carry the schedule with half the staff,” she said. “This is a terrible quandary; we don’t have the staffing, and budget cuts have fed into all of this, thank you very much.”

During public comment, Kaitlin Hansen went on record saying, “We can talk about cutting hours, but the real issue is why the mass exodus of employees is happening. That’s the main issue that needs to be discussed. If employees were not leaving, there would be no issue with when the library is open.”

Quillen was asked to present options to the board at the next meeting to solve the issue of keeping the library open.

“I’m concerned about cutting hours,” said Library Board Chair Kelli Kelly. “It is difficult to put them back. One thing we all agree on is that we care deeply about the library and patron access.”

Quillen said she is happy to provide several options, “I just wanted to have some parameters.”

Anna Springfield.

Senior Spotlight: Anna Springfield

Springfield is one of the eight students graduating this May who started at the school as a Kindergartener Oasis' opening year in 2011.

"I have made so many lifetime memories at Oasis, but it's hard to compete with going to Disneyland twice for Student Council leadership retreats," Springfield said. "I had a blast each time and enjoyed the opportunity to get to know the people in our council better.

"I have had the opportunity to witness the school change and grow. I would never have expected to attend the same school my entire life, but I can truly say that it has been an incredible blessing and has paved the way for an amazing future.

"There have been so many incredible teachers at Oasis who have impacted my life and grown me as a person. I would first like to thank Mrs. Marsh, my kindergarten teacher, for creating an incredible classroom environment of fun and learning. Even though I was young, her high expectations and encouraging spirit taught me that I could accomplish great things through hard work.

"I would also like to thank Mrs. Amy O'Flaherty. Her teaching style gave me an intense appetite for learning and grew my love of school. Additionally, she taught me the fundamental writing and critical thinking skills that have served me throughout high school."

"Lastly, I would like to thank Mr. Andy Lenon. He truly has gone above and beyond to get to know me and give me all the tools I need for success. His guidance has been invaluable in the process of applying to colleges and scholarships, and I wouldn't be where I am without him."

"I've always had a love for science, but it wasn't until taking this class that I discovered just how amazing it was. Although the class was extremely rigorous, I was able to learn valuable study skills which made me into the student I am today," she said of Biology 190 at WNC with Dr. Gary Evett. "This class was hard work, but my enjoyment of the subject made the hours of studying worth it. Lastly, this class has given me the confidence and desire to pursue Biology as my degree in college."

"Student Council has been a very pivotal part of my high school experience and I have learned so many valuable lessons through it."

"I would like to pass down the advice that was given to me by my parents and that has blessed me as a student. Do hard things. High school is a great time to push yourself and develop disciplines that will form the foundation for the rest of your life. Nothing worth doing is easy, and most often, it is the things that stretch you the most that produce the best rewards. You will never look back and regret working hard in high school, and that hard work will pay off."

Springfield will graduate this May with her high school diploma and her associate of arts degree from Western Nevada College. In the fall, she will attend the University of Nevada, Reno, and plans to earn a bachelor's degree in biology.

Senior Spotlight: Bryan Mendoza

A place that fosters curiosity, creativity, and collaboration. That's how graduating Oasis Academy senior Bryan Mendoza described the school he's attended since his freshman year in 2020.

"The school's dedication to providing a holistic education experience has truly stood out to me," said Mendoza. "One of the aspects I cherished most about my time at Oasis was the emphasis on hands-on learning and exploration. Whether it was through project-based assignments, experiential learning opportunities, or engaging discussions, every day presented a chance to delve deeper into subjects that intrigued me.

"The freedom to pursue my interests while being supported by passionate educators was invaluable and something I deeply appreciated. Overall, my time at Oasis was nothing short of transformative. It not only provided me with an exceptional education but also instilled in me a love for learning and a set of skills that I continue to carry with me beyond graduation."

"My advice [for others] would be to embrace exploration and curiosity. If you're unsure about college, that's perfectly okay. Take the time to explore your interests, try out different activities, and engage in various experiences to discover what truly ignites your passion.

"There were several reasons why math stood out to me. Firstly, Mr. Brandt's passion for mathematics was infectious; his enthusiasm for the subject was palpable in every lesson, making even the most complex concepts feel approachable and exciting.

"Beyond the classroom, Mr. Brandt was not only a dedicated educator but also a mentor who genuinely cared about his students' growth and well-being. Mr. Brandt went above and beyond to support his students. As someone who already loved mathematics, Mr. Brandt's class further fueled my passion for the subject.

Mendoza will graduate in May with his high school diploma and associate of arts degree from Western Nevada College. He then plans to attend the University of Nevada, Reno.

CCCHS - JAG students in front of a CAT Haul Truck at Kinross Mining.

Last week, CCCHS students in the Jobs for Americas Graduates program had the opportunity to tour Kinross Mining and shadow the workers around the property. They were allowed to be near the tractors and look at them closely. Kinross staff took students to the top of the pit to look down into its depths. Overall, the students had a great time job shadowing. It was an opportunity for those who were unaware of what they wanted to do after graduation to explore a job field they may not have considered initially. The students came back with very educational and engaging information.

ECB - Heidi Emke helping her students plant their flowers for their moms during a field trip to the Village Nursery.

EC Best's Heidi Emke and Tracy Soules' classes took a field trip to The Village Nursery last week. The students learned so much from the staff members, and they made the entire experience hands-on. The Village donated all the plants and materials so the students could create their Mother's Day gifts.

LES: CCCHS teacher Amanda Hammond took her two ceramics classes to Lahontan (pictured below) last week to meet with Jenny Young and Debbie Swisher's first-grade classes. The first graders were paired with a ceramics student who drew a monster they collaborated on. The ceramics students will create their monster in 3D as part of their final project for the year and present it to their first-grade partner.

LES students work on their projects with their CCHS partners.

Numa Parents flocked to the halls for the annual Numaseum event, where fifth graders took on the roles of a person, place, or event in history. After weeks of researching and writing, students dressed the part of their historical figures and shared with family and friends what they learned. Their informational speeches and boards wowed listeners throughout the evening.

CCMS - Two of Torri Conley's advisory students show off the project they made for their moms.

Students in Torri Conley's advisory class at CCMS had their mothers in mind last week. With Mother's Day around the corner, she wanted her students to do something special for their mothers like they used to do in elementary school. With the necessary donations, it was possible.

Last Week of School - No Bus Blackout

Staff Report

There is exciting news for ChurchillCSD Families. The Transportation Department has announced that the blackout for the last week of school is over. All buses and routes will run the week of May 20-24.

Superintendent Derild Parsons said, "I would like to express my gratitude to our transportation department staff for their hard work and dedication. They stepped up during these hard times, and I cannot express how grateful I am to all of them. Their efforts to hire and train more drivers and improve district transportation services have paid off. At this point in time, it looks like we will start the next school year fully staffed with bus drivers.

"I want to thank you [the families] for your understanding and support during the blackout schedules. We appreciate your patience and cooperation as we continuously work to improve our transportation service for our students and families. As we prepare for the 24-25 school year, we will be opening transportation applications for students to ride the buses. This will be available early next week, so please keep an eye out for the announcement."

Throughout the week, students, parents, and administrators join forces to honor teachers with heartfelt gestures and special activities. From handwritten notes of appreciation to surprise breakfasts and luncheons, every effort is made to show teachers how much they are valued and respected.

The spirit of appreciation extends beyond tangible gifts, as students often take the opportunity to reflect on the impact their teachers have had on their academic journey and personal growth. Teacher Appreciation Week serves as a poignant reminder of educators' profound influence on shaping the future generation and underscores the importance of recognizing their dedication and commitment throughout the year.

ALLISON'S BOOK REPORT

“Funny Story” by Emily Henry

I have returned from my travels and am tucked safely back into my little library at the top of the stairs – and I am still on the hunt for the perfect new summery reads for your pool bags and vacations. “But Allison, what makes a perfect summer read?” you ask. I suppose that answer varies for different readers. Still, for me, it usually means a rom-com that is laugh-out-loud funny, bursting with charming characters who have more chemistry than a science lab, and a sprinkling of steamy scenes to make me blush and look around to see if anyone notices. I want witty banter and sexual tension and, of course, a happily ever after.

Emily Henry never fails to check all those boxes for me; her new release, “Funny Story,” is no exception. Daphne always loved how her fiancé, Peter, told their story - they met on a windy day, fell in love over an errant hat, and moved back to his hometown to get married and settle down to begin their life together. He was so good at telling the story – until he realized he was in love with his best friend from childhood, the beautiful and charismatic Petra. Thus, a new story begins for Daphne – one in which she is stranded in her ex-fiancé’s hometown with no family or friends and no place to live. Even her dream job as a children’s librarian barely pays the bills. Displaced and heartbroken, she ends up with an unlikely roommate – Petra’s ex, the scruffy and chaotic Miles Nowak. Miles is the polar opposite of buttoned-up Daphne. The roommates mostly avoid each other - until one day, while drowning their sorrows, they devise a plan. The two begin posting misleading photos of their summer adventures together on social media. It’s all just for show, but things get muddy when the two start catching real feelings.

I dare you not to fall in love with the handsome and carefree Miles. He is a perfect new “book boyfriend,” and the chemistry between him and Daphne is funny and natural. I also love Daphne’s new friends – her co-worker, Ashleigh, and Miles’ wild little sister, Julia. Watching the friendship between these three very different women is a true testament to the friendships that we as women rely on. Emily Henry’s books are my absolute favorite, and she hits it right out of the park again with “Funny Story.”

My search for awesome summery reads continues here and on my Instagram @allison.the.reader, where I am always reading and rambling away. Pop over and let me know what’s on your checklist for the perfect summertime book!

Allison Diegel is the Executive Chaos Coordinator at the Diegel Home for Wayward Girls. She has been reading since before she could talk, and now she likes doing lots of both.

Pound Puppies

This is Max (D-382). He is 9 years old and, unfortunately, ended up here due to his owner's passing.

We were told that he's a Border Collie mix who is neutered and up to date on his vaccines. He's a couch potato who is affectionate, leash-trained, and house-trained. We are told he gets along with dogs of all sizes. In fact, one of his favorite places to be is the dog park. He's never been exposed to cats; however, he seems to be fine with our shelter cat. Max enjoys going on car rides and exploring his surroundings.

Give us a call at 775-423-2282 or come see us at 255 Airport Rd.
